Once the deadline for the political parties to present their respective national and parochial candidacies has ended, the formations that will be presented at the national polls are Democrats for Andorra + Committed Citizens, Concordia, Action, Andorra Endavant, Social Democratic Party in coalition with Progressives Concordia and Liberals. In the same way, the different parishes have also received their respective nominations, where Sant Julià de Lòria and Andorra La Vella will have four nominations, Escaldes-Engordany, la Massana and Ordino have obtained three lists each, Encamp will have two electoral options and, finally, Canillo will only have the candidacy of DA+Independents in the next April 2nd.

In this appointment with the ballot boxes, Laureadian Union and Tercera Via will not attend, who issued a statement in which they allege that there has been no cooperation and union within the party, and for this reason, the formation has decided not to present - in the elections for not having been able to develop a consensual and solid position.

Grifols in the spotlight of the candidacy of the PS and X'Ordino

►► On Monday morning, Joan Miquel Armengol and Pere Mas presented the parochial candidacy of PS and XO to the Municipality of Ordino for the upcoming elections on April 2nd, a list that starts from the base with the aim of ending the project of the future creation of the research center in immunology by the pharmaceutical holding Grifols. Armengol and Mas are fully confident in their options to achieve victory as a parish list basing their project on rejecting the laboratory, which, according to Armengol, is «totally out of place», in addition to denouncing that it has belittled the population of Ordino, since it is intended to carry out the project «without conducting popular consultation which they do not allow us to do». The parish candidate of the PS has declared that the only option they have left to be able to stop the project is to participate in these general elections, because «we only have to go to the General Council and end this project». The social democratic candidacy believes that its joint proposal with X'Ordino will be the winner to stand «against this proposal of the Grifols laboratory and I think that the population of Ordino, in particular, is against this project, and I believe that if we present ourselves for a candidacy united and represent this union against this project, we will be the winning (list)», affirmed Armengol.

►► However, number two on the parish list and leader of X'Ordino, Pere Mas, made brief statements in which he assured that «if the PS candidate needs my vote to be head of government, he will have it immediately», granting their support for Pere López for his national candidacy for the elections that will be held on April 2nd throughout the Andorran territory.
